A Missing Girl Turns Up Unharmed.

JENNIE STEVENSON'S JOURNEY

he Collected Money Due Her Pathe Ran Away to Jackson.

Jennie Stevenson, the 13-year-old dante a few days ago, bas bee found at Jackson, where she was witfriends. The girl had formerly been employed in the box factory in Ype lasti, but was discharged for somtrivial reason about the middle of December. Her parents were not aware of this fact, as Jennie was afraid of be ing punished. She has been in the habit of leaving home at the usual nour every morning, leading her parents to be lieve she was still employed at the boad factory, and returning to her meals account a street of the money which she would give her mother stores which employed Mr. Stevenson as satchman, giving each a receipt for the sum thus received, and as her father was in the habit of sleeping in the day time, all went well until Tuesday forencon, when Mrs. Stevenson went to one of the stores to collect some money, and the storekeeper apprised her of the fact. When Jennie arrived home at noon of that day she was severely scolled by her mother, and fearing a whipping from her father when he awoke, she immediately went to the Michigan Central dep it and purchased a ticket for Jackson, where she has relatives living. Mrs. Stevenson has been very ill on account of the girl's escapade.

Railway Companies to Be Held Equally Responsible for Accidents.

LANSING, March 4.-The supreme court in an opinion, Rascher vs. the East Detroit & Grosse Pointe Railway company (electric), lays down the doctrine that the public have as much right to travel upon the track of the company as the company itself, and that it enjoys no exclusive right of way which lifts from it the burden of being required to give warning of the approach of its care, and take all necesproach of its cars, and take all necessary precaution to prevent collisions, and that it is equally hable for contributory negligence. In the case in question, the plaintiff was riding in a carriage with her husband, upon the track of the defendant; the carriage was strnek by a car and she was thrown out and injured. She brought suit for damages in the Wayne circuit, and the case was taken from the jury on the ground that their was contributory negligence on her part in going upon the track at all. The court holds this theory to be unsound, and says the question of contributory negligence should have been submitted to the jury, and that the status of the company upon the highway, is precisely that of any company or person driving any other vehicle, and it must use the same precaution for the safety of the public notwithstanding it has the preublic notwithstanding it has the pre-

Hope deferred, then realized, is what

Hope deferred, then realized, is what played hob with Mrs. Justians Heintzmann, of Bay City, widow of a union soldier who died in 1875. She applied for a pension, but proceedings were delayed until she gave up hope. While too feeble to work and very despondent, a check for a large amount came to her from the government. The surto her from the government. The sur-prise unsettled her reason and with that affliction came another—the loss of sight. She has enough now to sup-port her in comfort, but is not in a condition to realize it.

A feeble-minded girl, an inmate of the Mecosta county house has just become a mother and another inmate is about to follow suit. The keeper has been under accusation, as has also an aged male inmate.
